Senate Remap Bill Passed On to House

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate whipped through a congressional redistricting bill today in a new attempt to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court's latest rigid requirements.

The straight party line vote sending the bill to the House was 20-9.

Variance from the ideal district demanded by the court would be only 0.674 per cent and Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, apportionment chairman, said he thought that would be enough to satisfy the court.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, the minority leader, shook his head in dismay over the bill. "I know of no state, he said, 'that would so patently, systematically and diabolically gerrymander a state to favor one political party'."

The way the St. Louis Metropolitan Area is split up among five congressional districts, he said, Republicans would have a chance to elect a Republican congressman. The 8th District of central Missouri, he said, "looks like a moose with the seat of government in the antler."

The bill makes no significant changes in the present political complexion of the districts. Democratic now 9-1.

The measure was pushed through the Senate in a week but is expected to cause more of an uproar in the House where redistricting always causes a political outburst.

Three times in the past eight years federal courts have struck down Congressional Districts created by the Legislature.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes expressed fear the current session couldn't redistrict and still produce the revenue and the budget allotments he has asked for state agencies and institutions

But Senate leaders said they could because the courts insisted the single factor was population. That made it simple, they said. There would be no need to consider carefully the geography or the way of life of any district — just make sure the number of residents came close to the ideal of 431,981 per district.

The Senate advanced the bill Tuesday after rejecting on a partisan vote a Republican-sponsored proposal for districts laid out by use of a computer.

Insurance Division Is Probed

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth launched an investigation today into alleged irregularities in the State Division of Insurance.

The action followed charges published by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat today that major irregularities had been uncovered in the testing of applicants for agents' and brokers' licenses.

The newspaper said John A. Sartorius, deputy superintendent of insurance, had been giving special examinations in his office and in one case Dr. Rudolph Edward Zatezalo of Clinton, Mo., had finished a 900-question test in 19 minutes and had been granted a license.

Dr. Zatezalo was a major fund raiser for Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in his 1964 campaign and helped raise money last year for vice-president Hubert Humphrey.

He is a Clinton chiropractor and vice-president of the Civic Plaza National Bank in Kansas City.

Sartorius reportedly denied all the charges. He and the superintendent of insurance, Robert D. Scharz, have not spoken to each other recently as the result of an inter-office feud.

Danforth said he has asked Alfred E. Sikes, an assistant attorney general and counsel for the Insurance Division, to confer with Scharz, Sartorius and Dr. Zatezalo. When Sikes finishes his report, Danforth said, he would decide what action should be taken.

Danforth is a Republican. Scharz and Sartorius are appointees of Democratic Gov. Hearnes who is in Rome.

"At a time when respect for law and confidence in our political system are matters of great public concern," Danforth said, "charges of irregularities in governmental agencies assume all the more importance."

"Regardless of the outcome of this investigation, I hope that it will serve the purpose of making it clear that charges of malfeasance in office will not be hurriedly passed over in this state."

A Transplant Patient Said Satisfactory

Mrs. Nona Hickenbottom, a Sedalia bank teller who received a kidney transplant at St. Luke's Hospital in Kansas City two days ago, is reported in satisfactory condition today.

Physicians at the hospital reported there are no signs of organ rejection by the woman's body. The 30-year-old patient was allowed to get up once for 10 minutes then later for a 20-minute period today.

Mrs. Hickenbottom visited with her husband, Air Force T-Sgt. Harold Hickenbottom; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Payne, 1200 State Fair, and other relatives spoke to her from across the hallway at the hospital.

Her doctor told Mrs. Hickenbottom two years ago she had only two years to live. Today she has more than a 50-50 chance of a much longer life, it was reported at a news conference Thursday morning.

Hickenbottom, at the news conference, said, "Before the operation her face had a yellowish color and her face was swollen. Now both are gone." He said there has been a considerable amount of improvement in her appearance.

Hickenbottom said he has not talked to the parents of the 10-year-old donor who died Tuesday after being hit by a car while riding his bicycle Saturday. "I think my wife would like to do that personally," he said.

Probe of Drug Traffic Results in Two Arrests

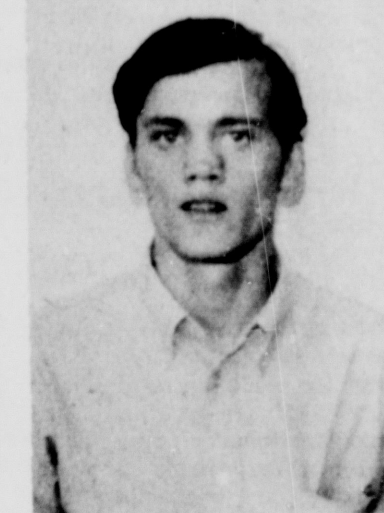

By RALPH JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Officials believe that an important link in the chain of supply that keeps drugs flowing into Pettis County was broken with the arrest of two men, one Wednesday and the other early Thursday morning.

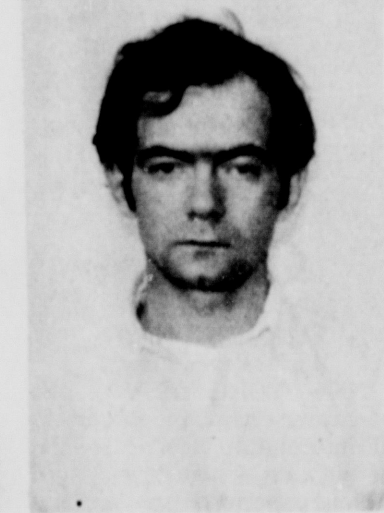

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, working in conjunction with the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, the Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney and the Kansas City Police Department, brought about the arrest of the two men — one in Kansas City and one in Sedalia.

Joe A. Sisemore, Route 3, alias "Skip" Sisemore, was arrested in Sedalia Wednesday by the sheriff and Deputy Don Stratton and taken to the Saline County jail in Marshall. He was returned to Sedalia Thursday morning, where he appeared before Judge Frank Armstrong in Magistrate Court.

Sisemore, 19, is charged with unlawful possession, sale and transportation of hallucinogenic drugs on Feb. 18, in Pettis County. The information on the warrant identifies the drug as that commonly known as LSD.

Joe Sisemore

Robert Maudlin

Robert W. Maudlin, 21, formerly of Sedalia, was arrested in Kansas City early Thursday morning by Sheriff Fairfax, who was accompanied by Deputy Orval Lewis, a member of the Kansas City Police Department's Narcotics Division, and three members of the federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

Maudlin was taken to Magistrate Court Thursday morning, where his preliminary hearing was set on a charge of unlawful possession, sale and transportation of narcotics and hallucinogenic drugs, specifically LSD, marijuana and hashish, on Feb. 26, 1969. Hashish is a narcotics drug derived from the marijuana

Europe Observes Quiet May Day

LONDON (AP) — Europe's May Day celebrations took on a new look today, more subdued in Communist capitals and unusually tense in the West.

The Soviet Union dropped the display of military hardware which in the past preceded the mammoth parade of workers and other civilians past Lenin's tomb in Moscow's Red Square. With the exception of East Germany, other nations in the Soviet bloc followed Moscow's example.

Fearful of another outburst of anti-Soviet feeling Czechoslovak authorities strengthened police forces in Prague with army troops. The workers' parade was called off, and factories urged workers to spend the traditional holiday in the country and avoid large gatherings.

In the West, authorities from London to Athens also prepared for trouble.

British workers went on strike for 24 hours to protest the Labor government's plans to curb wildcat strikes. The walkout was expected to fall short of the general strike its promoters wanted, but union leaders said up to a million men out of the country's 24.5-million work force would be involved.

The French Interior Ministry banned the usual Paris parade, charging that some leftist extremist groups planned to use the occasion for a day of "revolutionary combat." The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor and the French National Students Union also canceled plans for May Day demonstrations, seeking to improve the Communists' image for the coming presidential campaign.

Portuguese authorities ordered a security clampdown, the first for a May Day since 1962, after bombs rocked the U.S. Consulate in Oporto and the main electric power line to Lisbon. Neither blast caused injury. The Interior Ministry blamed a Portuguese terrorist group based in Paris and ordered extra police patrols, spot car checks and the closing of Lisbon University.

In Spain, extra police on horseback and on foot patrolled strategic points in Madrid and Barcelona to guard against threatened demonstrations against the Franco regime. Police reported small skirmishes with student groups but no major trouble.

It was the first such demonstration since the army seized power in April 1967 and banned all outdoor mass gatherings. Police estimated the crowd at 20,000. They said the demonstrators dispersed after the rally and there were no disturbances.

Head Start Enrollment Scheduled

An enrollment deadline of May 15, for the Summer Head Start program here has been set by Jack Jones, Marshall, director of Head Start for Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., Carrollton.

The federally-financed program will run from June 16 to Aug. 8, according to Jones. He said about 100 children are expected to participate.

Pettis County will receive $23,000 from Missouri Valley for Summer Head Start, according to Jones, of a total budget of $63,000 for the program in the entire 6-county area.

Jones said community aides "will be knocking on doors" this month in an attempt to reach those children most in need of Head Start, who will be given preference. Children who will enter either kindergarten or the first grade next fall are eligible.

Summer Head Start will be held at Hubbard School in the mornings for four hours. A breakfast snack will be provided as well as lunch. Five teachers plus teachers aides will conduct the program.

Pediatric services will be provided by Dr. James Burkholder and Dr. Robert Edmonds. Dental care will be offered by Dr. Gary Evert. Psychological services are also being planned, Jones said, with parental educational programs included.

Jones said it is hoped that a year-round Head Start program involving 60 children can be funded for Pettis County beginning in September.

In reference to the county's affiliation with the Missouri Valley agency at Carrollton, Jones said, "Now we consider Pettis County one of us. We are going to do all we can for this area."

Parents may enroll their children at the Manpower office in Room 12 of Hubbard School, or by calling 826-0624.

ABM Appeal By Agnew Made to GOP Governors

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew appealed to the nation's Republican governors today to support President Nixon's decision to deploy the Safeguard missile defense system.

A check in advance of the speech showed strong support among the GOP state executives for the missile system which Agnew said represents the "minimum, feasible, responsible action necessary to guarantee the security of the nation."

But a significant number of governors took no stand.

Agnew argued at a closed business session of the conference that Safeguard would preserve the equilibrium of U.S. and Soviet nuclear capabilities and leave the way open for diplomatic negotiations with the Russians.

The text of his prepared speech was made available for publication.

"If a major political breakthrough leads to disarmament, construction can be immediately stopped," he said. "If a major research breakthrough leads to the development of a genuine national defense umbrella, it is because Safeguard's expenditures were research oriented."

Agnew said the President's decision ought to be supported by the governors "if for no other reason that it is less expensive than the Sentinel system proposed by the previous administration."

Several governors, however, were wary about any public endorsement of a deployment decision that promises to encounter stiff opposition in the Senate.

Twelve of 21 governors reached in an Associated Press survey said they support the decision. These included Govs. Ronald Reagan of California, chairman of the conference; John A. Love of Colorado, former chairman; Daniel J. Evans of Washington, keynote at the Miami Beach, Fla., convention, and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, co-chairman of the Governors Association Policy Committee. Rockefeller and Evans did not attend the conference.

Others supporting the President's decision were Govs. Keith H. Miller of Alaska, Walter R. Peterson Jr., of New Hampshire, Claude R. Kirk Jr., of Florida, Frank Farrar of South Dakota, Tom McCall of Oregon, William Milliken of Michigan, Harold LeVander of Minnesota and Robert D. Ray of Iowa.

Only Govs. Don Samuelson of Idaho and former Chairman Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts expressed public doubts about Safeguard.

Sargent said he regrets the President's decision "in the sense that I had hoped major federal money could be earmarked for state and urban problems." He said he has no opinion on the strategic need for the system.

Samuelson said merely he thought it unwise to deploy Safeguard at this time.

Battlefield Deaths Decline in Viet War

SAIGON (AP) — American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week dropped to their lowest total in nearly four months while the enemy toll remained high, the U.S. Command reported today.

A U.S. spokesman attributed the reduction in American casualties to a decrease in the Viet Cong offensive. He said enemy casualties remain high because there has been no slackening of U.S. and South Vietnamese offensive operations.

The weekly casualty reports said 163 Americans, 237 South Vietnamese government troops and 3,662 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in action last week.

It was the lowest American toll reported since the Viet Cong's spring offensive began 10 weeks ago and the third lowest toll of the year, bettered only by the first two weeks in January.

The toll among government forces was their lowest since Feb. 22, the day before the enemy launched its offensive. But the 3,662 enemy dead reported were 164 more than the revised total of 3,498 given for the week before.

South Vietnamese headquarters, explaining the drop in allied casualties, said the Viet Cong's offensive decreased sharply last week except in the 3rd Corps area stretching from Saigon to the Cambodian border. And even in the 3rd Corps

"the intensity of the enemy activity was not very significant," a communique said.

The main form of enemy activity during the last week still was shelling, and a few ground attacks were also recorded, but they were carried out sporadically by their regional forces," the communique said.

The focus of the war appeared today to be shifting to border areas where the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are in a more advantageous position.

Military spokesmen reported allied forces killed 186 North Vietnamese in seven clashes, and six of them were along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon or just below the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone.

North Vietnamese gunners firing from inside the DMZ and from near the Laotian border also made two heavy mortar attacks on American troops during the night. The U.S. Command said casualties were light but some Americans were killed or wounded.

Allied casualties in the ground fighting included 13 Americans and 13 South Vietnamese killed, and 97 Americans and 40 South Vietnamese wounded.

The war maps now appear to be just as they were at the end of last year, with the bulk of the North Vietnamese troops concentrated again along the Cambodian and Laotian borders.

Hearnes' Tax Bill Onto Senate Floor

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The main income tax bill recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes was approved by the Senate Ways and Means Committee Wednesday night.

The vote sending it to the floor was 7-3.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell agreed to let the bill come out of committee so it could be debated by the full Senate. But he served notice he would oppose an attempt to increase individual income tax rates.

The bill would increase individual taxes about $34 million for a full year and corporate rates about $36 million.

A bill to eliminate the corporate credit for federal income tax payments on state returns was approved 6-2 with two not voting. It would raise an estimated $18 million a year.

But the committee did not act on almost $60 million worth of tax collection speedup bills which the governor has said he must have to balance his $1.3 billion budget for 1969-70.

In other action the committee killed one "urban crisis" bill sponsored by the so-called urban coalition of mayors and approved another urban aid measure.

The one approved would give cities about $37 million for police expenses from an income tax increase if the voters approve. The one killed would have shared about $40 million of increased income taxes with the cities, with the larger cities getting the most.

Also sent to the floor by the committee was an income tax "simplification" bill intended to conform with the constitutional amendment adopted by the people last fall. It would allow state income taxpayers to use the same figure they use in federal returns but would cost them some money by eliminating Social Security and railroad retirement benefits as deductions.

The committee action came after a three-hour hearing in which sponsors of the income tax increases called them the fairest way to meet the state's revenue needs.

Opponents charged corporations would pay a disproportionate

Medicaid Is Broke In State

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico's Medicaid program ended today because the $17 million appropriated for the fiscal year ran out in the first 10 months.

Effects of the end of the federally supported medical assistance program for the poor were immediate as some of the 1,115 elderly receiving nursing home care under the program were taken home by relatives who could not afford to pay costs at the homes.

State officials said about half of the 1,115 patients would qualify for general public assistance payments of $84.70 monthly, which could be used for sheltered care payments.

The monthly cost of the program ran about 30 per cent above budgeted amounts for most of the fiscal year that began July 1. Officials said per-patient payments were higher than expected.

Cargo has said he would not call a special session unless he was sure the legislature will approve the additional appropriation.

Tragedy For Americans Scaling Nepal Mountain

NEW YORK (AP) — Five of the 10 Americans who challenged the world's seventh highest mountain have died on its icy slopes in western Nepal.

Two native guides also were killed in the accident, somewhere along the forbidding southeast ridge of Mt. Dhaulagiri, 26,810 feet high.

First reports of the tragedy came from the State Department Wednesday night. A spokesman for the American Alpine Club in New York, sponsor of the expedition, confirmed the deaths.

The club said the dead Americans, according to a radio report received by the State Department from Al Read, deputy leader of the climb, were:

Boyd N. Everett Jr., of New York, leader of the party; Paul Gerhard, Laguna Beach, Calif.; John Vincent Hoeman, Anchorage, Alaska; William Ross, Stanford University, California; and David Seidman, Norwalk, Conn.

The club spokesman said the report was described by the State Department as "unconfirmed" because the accident scene is "two days' walk from the nearest place where a helicopter can be put down."

The spokesman said he understood a helicopter had just landed with a rescue team.

Dhaulagiri, which means white peak, was first scaled by a Swiss team in 1960, after seven unsuccessful attempts. This was the first attempt on the southeast ridge.

"It's all very high up," French mountaineer Gaston Rebuffat once said, "and above all it's technically very difficult: great walls and towers of ice, some rock, broken ground. There's absolutely no possibility of going that way."

But the Americans disagreed, and left New York March 31, led by the 36-year-old Everett, who had climbed North America's four highest peaks.

Everett and Vin Hoeman of Anchorage, Alaska, were among the victims, the State Department said. Other names were withheld pending notification of families.

An early report from New Delhi said a radio call had been received, asking for evacuation of two climbers who had taken ill. Further details were not forthcoming.

The Americans, with four Sherpa guides and 94 porters, set out two weeks ago, planning to establish a base camp at 16,000 feet and rest there 10 days to adjust to the thin air.

Other American members of the party, described by the Alpine Club spokesman as "apparently in good health," are Read, who is from Moose, Wyo.; James G. Janney 33, of St. Louis; Louis Reichardt, 26, of Palo Alto, Calif.; Dr. James Morrissey, of Olivette, Mo. and Dr. Jeffrey Duenwald, of Pullman, Wash.

Mrs. Less Longan was in charge of the worship service. The group voted to donate $700 to the church building fund.

A dessert course was served by the hostesses following the meeting.

Senator Blasts Navy For Letter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy was charged today with being "grudging and backhanded" in withdrawing a reprimand but refusing a commendation to a civilian employee who triggered disclosures of the multi-billion dollar theft of U.S. fuel supplies in Thailand.

"The Navy has a genius for confusing the point," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery today concerning John McGee, a civilian fuel inspector for the Navy.

Proxmire sharply criticized the April 18 action in which Navy Secretary John H. Chaffee gave McGee a routine, ordinarily automatic in-grade promotion, withdrew an earlier reprimand but said "I find no basis for commending you" and that his "association with the Navy had not fully met desirable standards."

"McGee uncovered a system which resulted in vast corruption," Proxmire said, charging "What Mr. McGee's superiors and the Navy have tried to do since Mr. McGee first attempted to change a lax system is to divert attention from the wrongdoing and corruption in Thailand to the alleged petty, and I mean petty, mistakes of Mr. McGee."

"In Thailand," Proxmire said, "there was vast thievery of American fuel. The inspection system was lax. While that system may not have been the cause of the thievery problem, it did not help to prevent it and, in many ways, contributed to it. This was apparent to Mr. McGee from almost the day he arrived," the Wisconsin Democrat went on, adding that when McGee tried to press through channels for changes, "his superiors prevented him from carrying out his duties as an inspector. They put him in mothballs."

Proxmire said the General Accounting Office investigation he requested after McGee came to him "proved that Mr. McGee's allegations were absolutely correct."

"And not until 15 months after McGee's original allegations and only after the GAO was concluding its investigation, did the Navy change the system of inspection for its 'ground fuels' which the GAO called deficient."

"If it had not been for Mr. McGee," he said, "there would have been no GAO report."

"If it had not been for Mr. McGee, there would have been no change in the system which resulted in massive thievery, instead of a reprimand to those who were lax and imprudent, the Navy tried to fire the man who brought the condition forcefully to their attention."

Proxmire said the Navy's charge that McGee had falsified an employment application is "totally false. This charge against McGee in 1968 could have been for no other purpose than to retaliate against him for bringing the fuel theft allegations."

Proxmire said "What the Navy had said loud and clear in its grudging letter to Mr. McGee is 'Don't report any wrongdoing. If methods are lax, if officials act imprudently, if no one will act, don't do anything about it. If you do, you may well be reprimanded. Instead of investigating the problem, we will investigate you."

"Instead of commending you for a job well done, you will be looked upon as a maverick and ostracized from the system." That, I am unhappy to say, is the real meaning of the case of John McGee," he said.

'Micromation' to Rescue Of Computer Paper Load

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The electronic computer, the brains of information processing and automation, is now developing a serious paperwork problem. But another technological marvel, the instant recorder, is coming to the rescue.

The new equipment, which only recently reached the commercial stage, eliminates a frustrating bottleneck in computer usage and opens up new possibilities for the use of information.

In the nation's electronic computers there is stored an incredible amount of information. However, this material is of no use unless it can be retrieved from the computer in which it is stored electronically.

The conventional method is to obtain a printout. That is, the computer magnetic tapes or disks are hooked to an impact printer that is quite similar to an electric typewriter. It types out on paper the stored information.

This printer is fast by most standards, recording the computer's output at the rate of 1,000 to 1,200 lines a minute. No human secretary could come within a small percentage of that speed.

Electronic computers operate in the billionths of seconds, however, and impact printers simply can't keep pace. The computer is forced to slow down.

Moreover, tons of paper can pile up and this paper must be collated, bound and stored. As the storage pile gets larger it also becomes less accessible, presenting still another retrieval problem.

But just as certainly as technology creates problems it also is nourished by them. And so to the rescue comes a new technology: instant filming, sometimes called micromation.

Once in order to record the output of a computer the microfilmer had to obtain a printout and then photograph it. This, of course, did nothing to eliminate the bottleneck, for output still was limited by the typewriter.

Now that step has been eliminated by machines that convert the electronic impulses to drawings, symbols and words, and simultaneously film them.

Recording speeds vary depending on the machine used but range from 60,000 to 90,000 characters a second, which equals about 20,000 to 25,000 lines a minute.

At that rate the computer can pour its brains onto film and then get back to the more profitable business of answering inquiries or performing analyses.

Ann Landers

Sis-in-Law Steals Decorating Ideas

Dear Ann Landers: I have waited 20 years to get my home just the way I want it. It took thousands of hours of experimenting, saving, waiting, shopping, matching and assembling. Then my husband's two sisters, both in their 20's, married less than five years, not a brain between them, steal my ideas and use them in their own homes.

My husband says I should be flattered, but I'm not. I'm furious. I think it's sneaky, low-down and scummy to steal someone's ideas. I've told my husband I will never again set foot inside their doors because it makes me physically ill to see my draperies, my carpeting, my lamps, my wallpaper and my faucet handles in someone else's home.

Am I childish or do I have a legitimate gripe? — Xeroxed
Dear Madame X: There is no way to protect oneself against imitators. This goes for art, music, literature, and business concepts as well as faucet handles. My advice is to forget it. The borrowed idea never comes off like the original. Anyone who sees your home and then sees their homes knows who is doing the imitating.

Dear Ann Landers: May I suggest a sequel to your excellent advice. "People go to the hospital because they are sick, not because they are lonesome."

When a patient has major surgery the recovery period seems like an eternity. He wonders if he will ever regain his full measure of strength and vitality. Please, Ann, tell visitors not to say, "My brother had exactly the same operation and he was back at work within ten days."

A neighbor said this to my husband recently and it upset him terribly. He was certain something must be drastically wrong because two weeks had passed and he was far from ready to return to work. He accused the doctor of keeping something from him. He insisted that I "stop lying" and tell him the truth.

I'm sure the neighbor meant well but she certainly did a lot of damage. Please print this. The public needs educating. — Syracuse, N. Y.

Dear Syracuse: No two people have exactly the same operation. Operations vary according to the extent of deterioration, the individual's age, weight, general health, recuperative powers and emotional outlook.

What's more, surgical techniques vary. Dr. A. might make a 3-inch incision to remove an appendix while Dr. B. will leave a scar twice as long. Operations, like love affairs are not comparable. Each has characteristics which make it special and unique.

Confidential to Between the Devil and The Deep Blue Sea: Take the sea, Honey. The devil charges too much — and invariably, it's the Enjoy-Now Pay-Later plan. This inevitably costs a great deal more in the end. There are no bargains in love and war.

"The Bride's Guide." Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers, will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Give a Dinner For Members Of Symphony

Members of the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra and their guests were entertained at a dinner Wednesday night at the Old Missouri Homestead sponsored by the Sedalia Symphony Society.

More than 100 persons attended, and heard Mr. Marguerite Scott, president of the Symphony Society, express appreciation to the musicians and patrons for their support during the last season.

Harry Walch, entertainment chairman of the society and master of ceremonies for the evening, also thanked those present for their support.

Abe Rosenthal, symphony director, reviewed contributions made by Sedalians, many of whom were present, to the symphony during its 34 years of existence.

Mrs. Mary Frances Herndon and Mrs. Carol Barnes lead the group in singing following the dinner.

Bunceton PTA Meets

BUNCETON — Mrs. Kenneth Medlin was installed as president of the Bunceton Parent Teacher Association at the April 21 meeting. Mrs. August Langendoerfer was the installing officer.

Other officers for the coming year are Mrs. James Felgar, vice president; Mrs. G. T. Hazlett, secretary; Mrs. Richard Nelson, treasurer and Mrs. Robert Hurt, historian.

The kindergarten and second grade tied for the attendance banner. The special education pupils, under the direction of Mrs. Eula Nelson, presented the program. Slides of Germany and other countries were shown by Paul Wooldridge.

At the May 7 meeting the PTA will honor the eighth grade and senior class with a covered dish dinner.

TIPTON — William Edward Simmers, 78, died at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday at his home.

He was born July 19, 1890, near High Point, son of the late Elmer and Lillie Reynolds Simmers. He married Edna Jenkins at California July 26, 1911. She preceded him in death in April, 1945.

He married Katherine Verlinden Morlock Sept. 20, 1947. Mr. Simmers was a retired mining engineer, working in the Eldon and Lupis area. He was a member of the Pilot Grove Baptist Church and California Masonic Lodge.

Surviving him are his wife of the home; two sons, Harold W. Simmers, St. Charles; William E. Simmers, Jr., Granite City, Ill.; a stepson, August W. Morlock, Latham; two brothers, Walter R. Simmers, California; Charley Simmers, Parkville; a sister, Mrs. Lola Hogsett, Sedalia; six grandchildren and four step-grandchildren.

Preceding him in death were a son, Charles Elmer Simmers in infancy; two brothers, Robert E. Simmers, Audrey Earl Simmers, and two sisters, Artie Bell Simmers and Mary Minerva Simmers.

Masonic services will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the Conn Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the funeral home, with the Rev. J. D. Cooper, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Pallbearers will be Masons. Music will be by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dawson.

Burial will be in California Masonic Cemetery.

Garlich Elected Vice-President Of State Group

Roger Garlich, director of the Children's Therapy Center and the Sheltered Workshop, was recently elected vice-president of the Missouri Association of Sheltered Workshops at a meeting in Cape Girardeau.

The association is composed of 23 work shops, which serve more than 1,000 physically and mentally handicapped young adults throughout the state.

The purpose of the state-wide association is to further employment opportunities for the severely handicapped young adult who is unemployable in the competitive labor market.

The Pettis County Workshop was the first work shop in the state authorized to operate by the State Department of Education.

David Curry, board member, attended the meeting with Garlich.

Dr. Fisher Addresses Osage Chapter, DAR

Dr. Stanley Fisher spoke to Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Saturday at Bothwell Hotel.

Talking for his subject "Art Glass," which he collects, he said that the United States did not begin to produce fine glass, called art glass, until in the 1880's.

Dr. Fisher told of the companies in this country that produce art glass: William Libby, Father and Son, Toledo, Ohio; Hobbs, West Virginia; Abernethy Sandwich Co., Mt. Washington Co., New York; Corning Glass Co., New York.

The speaker described Glory Glass, a gold color, manufactured in 1883; a wild rose pattern in a diamond gilded piece; and Amberena glass, red and amber.

Peach Blow is always white inside and colored outside, he said, and Bernice glass is yellow to salmon color and is complemented by uranium.

Thomas Webb sent some of this glass to Queen Victoria of England, he said.

Satin glass, made by Thomas Webb with diamond point or mother of pearl, and Agathus, very rare because it was made only two years, were both mentioned.

Tiffany glass was made in 1853 by an early American glass maker, who then studied art in Europe and made stained glass windows for churches, he said.

Good pieces, Dr. Fisher said, are stamped with the makers' brand. Frederick Carter's Orene iridescent glass is duplicated today in cheap glass, he added.

Press glass was made long before cut glass in 1783, Dr. Fisher stated, and explained that good cut glass is always deep cut. He showed many pieces of glass from his collection.

Mrs. Jessie E. White

Funeral services for Mrs. Jessie E. White, 79, 818 East Ninth Street, who died at the Bothwell Hospital Sunday night, were held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 1 p.m. Thursday, with the Rev. Floyd T. Police Report

Carolyn Baker, 115 East Pacific, reported to police someone took her gold bracelet watch, valued at over $20, from the apartment house at the above address sometime early Wednesday morning.

Police were notified late Tuesday night that a cigarette machine at the Dutch Maid Laundry, 621 West Main, had been broken into. The investigating officers found that the machine had been pried open, the front glass broken and the coin box taken.

Phases of the program included the "Fun House," a match-making ice-breaker; Mrs. Claude Lambirth's discussion of the packets and manual; "Test Your Skill," a questionnaire; "Ringmaster of P.T.A.," in which Mrs. Kenneth Shiner, state corresponding secretary, assisted in giving information; a planned, contributive meal, the "Chow Time."

Balloons decorated the tables which were set up and marked for program, hospitality, budget and finance, and general information.

The group was divided so that everyone could visit each table. The hospitality table displayed sample name-tags and Mrs. Thomas Gardner and Mrs. Harold Smith gave pointers for hospitality chairmen.

Mrs. Grant Cox, budget and finance, gave sample budget sheets and answered questions regarding this. The program suggestions were given by Mrs. Paul Neitzert and Mrs. Guy Snyder.

Mrs. Paul Dey was in charge of the "Grand Finale," giving the door prize and dismissing each one with a balloon.

It was voted that the school have four P.T.A. meetings in the 1969-70 school year.

plant, in a more concentrated form than the "pot" cigarettes made from the same plant.

Sheriff Fairfax said Maudlin had 50 LSD tablets on his person when arrested, and the officials found 1 1/2 pounds of marijuana in the basement of the building in which Maudlin lived, 8619 Longview, Kansas City.

The preliminary hearing for both of the defendants was set for 9 a.m. on May 20, in Magistrate Court. Bonds of $10,000 each were set for the defendants. Sisemore met his bond and was released. Maudlin failed to meet his bond and was taken to the jail in Marshall.

The sheriff said he has been working on the case since last January, in co-operation with Prosecuting Attorney Henry Keeler and members of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. He indicated that much of the evidence leading to the arrests was obtained through the sale of drugs to members of the federal bureau, who were working under cover here in Sedalia.

Others, who were not members of the bureau, have offered testimony in the case, the sheriff said.

"We have all been working on continuous reports of drugs being sold in the area, but it is difficult to obtain the evidence needed to effect an arrest," the sheriff said. He added that, even though it is difficult to obtain the needed evidence, "It can be done."

The sheriff indicated that his department has other drug reports that are being worked on.

Keeler said he intends to vigorously prosecute all cases of drug traffic or use in the county, and intends to co-operate fully with the sheriff and federal officials in obtaining evidence that might lead to a conviction.

"We intend to do something about drug usage in this county," he said.

Jurisdiction in the case was determined at a conference between federal and state officials and it was determined that the state should prosecute the case, even though drug traffic is also a violation of federal law.

Care of Furnishings
During the past few years a multitude of new and unexpected materials have been added to home furnishings. Most of these materials require conventional cleaning methods, but many materials require special care. All homemakers should read tags carefully.

Here are a few tips for the care of five types of surfaces.

Marble — Because marble is of limestone formation and porous, it absorbs alkaline solutions such as soap or detergent suds. To clean safely and provide protection, use a cream furniture wax, particularly for white, rose and beige marbles. For additional protection on black and porous travertines, follow cleaning with a light coat of paste wax and polish thoroughly while the wax is moist.

Only stains made by butter, salad dressing, cream, etc. should be removed before waxing. If this doesn't remove all the stain, bleach with an application of hydrogen peroxide to which a drop or two of ammonia has been added. To remove marks which have been etched into the polished surface by alcohol or acids in fruit juices, sand gently with finest sandpaper. Then rub with polishing putty (tin oxide) on a damp soft cloth. Tobacco stains may be bleached out with an application of hydrogen peroxide.

Metal — Finger marks and smudges on any metal are removed quickly with a gentle cream wax, and it will provide a sparkle that will resist water spotting. Wax all metal trim on cabinets and furniture as well as small appliances, decorative articles and stainless steel work areas.

Canes — To keep rattan, cane reed and rush chair seats clean, simply sponge the surface with warm soapsuds and rinse. This also helps to "shrink" any sagging seat taut again. After drying for several days, the seat can be shellacked if desired.

Plastic upholstery — Sponge the surface often with warm soap or detergent suds and rinse, completing one section of the furniture at a time. Little water is needed in washing, since soil remains on the surface of non-porous plastic, and woven plastic upholstery simply sheds the surplus water. Never use a wax coating on plastic upholstery. The wax does not penetrate the surface and some excess might later rub off on clothing.

Painted or enameled furniture can be kept clean by applying "dry" soapsuds, made by beating a handful of soap with a little water to produce a stiff, meringue like lather. Simply sponge the furniture with this, rinse-wipe several times with a damp cloth and dry with a clean cloth. Then wax or polish may be applied, if desired.

Cooking With Spice
The word "spice" is often used to describe any one of five different types of savory aromatics. True spices actually come from the bark, root, fruit, or berry of perennial plants. Spices are found in whole as well as ground form.

Some familiar spices and their sources are cinnamon from bark, ginger from root, nutmeg from fruit, pepper from berry.

Herbs are the leaves, never the stems, of annual and perennial low growing shrubs, such as parsley, sage, rosemary, sweet basil, and thyme.

Aromatic seeds are seeds of annual plants which may be used either whole or ground. Some examples are caraway, celery, mustard, and poppy.

Poultry seasoning, chili powder, pumpkin pie spices, and salad herbs are called seasonings. They are blends of spices with herbs, seeds or salt. They may be blended for one specific purpose or can be multipurposed.

Vegetable spices like garlic, paprika, bell peppers, chili peppers, horseradish, and onions come in powders, chips and salt.

The key to seasoning is just a dash. Use them in small quantities at first until you get to know their flavors. The standard rule is ¼ teaspoon for four servings. Dried herbs are stronger and more aromatic than fresh herbs, so use only one-fourth as much as the recipe calls for if fresh herbs are given. They need liquid to unlock their flavor so add them to the liquid in your recipe.

The whole spices in a small square of cheese cloth or put them in a tea ball, so they can easily be removed before serving. Whole spices such as stick cinnamon and cloves are perfect for beverages and pickles. Ground spices would cloud the liquid.

Cooked foods such as stews, soups and sauces will taste best if herbs are added during the last hour of cooking. Uncooked foods such as salad dressings, fruits and juices will need time for the flavors to mingle. Herbs should be added as long as possible before serving time to release their essence.

Priests Working For Changes

DETROIT (AP) — New moves are developing among Roman Catholic priests for a change in Church rules giving them the option either to remain celibate or to marry—without any break in their ministry.

Public declarations on the matter came this week from clergy groups in various places, including Detroit and New York, in the wake of action by American Catholic bishops reaffirming the celibacy requirement.

Further steps also were taken in shaping a new organization set up to seek the right of married priests to continue in their religious vocation.

"Those are married priests available now who are ready to go to work with the understanding that the structure of authority has got to be shared," said the Rev. Pat Best, treasurer of the new group, the Society of Priests for a Free Ministry.

It reports a growing membership of 250 who want to pursue their religious careers as married priests.

The president is Eugene C. Bianchi, a Jesuit-trained theologian, now teaching religion at Methodist-run Emory University in Atlanta.

Father Best, engaged to be married in June, was a priest in Des Moines until a year ago. He applied for dispensation from his celibacy vows, in the view that he eventually would marry, and is now a vocational rehabilitation expert treating deaf children for the state of Michigan.

He estimated that from 2,000 to 10,000 priests left their religious vocations in the United States in the last year. However, no definitive figures are available, and some studies suggest about 3,000 or less.

Still other surveys have shown that the majority left to be married. Also, national polls of priests indicate about two-thirds of them feel priests should have the option of marrying. So do half of the seminarians.

Similar sentiments were voiced Wednesday by 38 Detroit priests, who challenged the Church law forbidding priests to marry, and said they consider themselves free to marry and continue their work as priests.

"Marriage should never be a state which rules out one for the service of the Church at any level," their statement said.

The Rev. Jerome Fraser, corresponding secretary of the 130-member Association of Detroit Priests, said the statement would be circulated among the membership to seek further signatures.

It does not signal any mass march into matrimony he said, but was primarily to let Church authorities know priests are concerned about the celibacy rule.

A similar stand was taken Sunday by 31 priests who held a rally in Brooklyn, reaffirming their opposition to celibacy, and declaring they consider themselves free to marry.

It came in the face of a statement by Brooklyn's Bishop Francis J. Mugavero saying he was not opposed to open discussion of the subject, but the 800-year-old rule of celibacy for priests was still binding.

American bishops, meeting in Houston in early April, reaffirmed the celibacy requirement, although noting a growing problem in meeting ministerial needs, with seminary enrollment down 12 per cent in three years.

The Society of Priests for a Free Ministry, launched last fall in St. Louis, recently held a meeting in Detroit of regional leaders to put finishing touches on an organizational framework and purposes, and to elect officers.

Election Of Officers Is Held

CALIFORNIA — Mrs. Roger Burger, Mrs. James Dahler and Mrs. Gene Bolin were hostesses at the recent meeting of the Montevideo County Memorial Auxiliary 4345.

Mrs. Fritz Ziehmer conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Ray Hickman, cancer chairman, reported that the surgical dressings and bed covers made from February through April had been donated to the hospital.

Hospital chairman, Miss Marie Baker, reported that aprons to be sent to the Veterans hospital for distribution on Mothers Day had been brought by the members. Mrs. Iola Lademann, membership chairman, reported the auxiliary membership is now 53 as of the last meeting.

Flowers and food were sent to the family of the late Clarence W. Rohrbach and a gift was sent to Mrs. Gladys Pennington, a hospital patient. Reports of these events were given by Mrs. Della Wolf, flower chairman.

Officers elected for the coming year are Mrs. Iola Lademann, president; Miss Emma Haldiman, senior vice president; Mrs. Bob Reynolds, junior vice president; Mrs. John A. Dorn, Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Zena Semmler, chaplain; Mrs. Anthony Scheidt, conductress and Mrs. Roger Burger, guard.

Trustees are Mrs. Henry Ziehmer, three year term; Mrs. Ray Hickman, two year term and Mrs. Fritz Ziehmer, one year term.

Delegates to the department convention June 20-22 in Jefferson City are Miss Marie Baker, Mrs. Iola Lademann, Mrs. Della Wolf and Mrs. Anthony Scheidt. Alternates are Mrs. Roger Burger, Mrs. Bill Glenn, Miss Emma Haldiman and Mrs. Bob Reynolds.

'Job Bank' Streamlines Getting One

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — People need jobs and employers need workers. And out of that truism an idea came into being in Baltimore a year ago—a single clearing house for job seeker and job giver.

Now through use of a computer, an up-to-date list of the thousands of jobs currently available is turned out every week-day morning.

The Job Bank, as it is called, has come far enough that Baltimore people are traveling all over the country teaching other cities how to do it.

The program is ready for launching in Chicago, St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., Hartford, Conn., and Portland, Ore. A dozen more cities are expected to open job banks by July 1, and the government hopes to have them operating in 30 more cities during the 1969-70 fiscal year.

"I'm a little overwhelmed," says J. Donn Aiken, lean, white-haired director of the Maryland Employment Service who is creator of the project.

In March 1968, employers were besieged by requests to list their openings from all of the many programs financed by federal funds. One company was getting more than 90 calls a day.

That month, Aiken and Eugene B. Moore Jr., general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, met with representatives of 30 agencies that touch on manpower to devise something to halt the bothersome flood.

The mechanical process of the Job Bank begins at Aiken's office at 6:30 p.m. By 1 or 2 a.m.—3 or 4 a.m. during the busy summer—a computer and a copier have turned out 29 copies of pages containing thousands of current job openings.

The pages are assembled into books, and distributed by morning to Aiken's placement counselors and the city's antipoverty agencies. More than 30 pieces of information are listed for each opening, ranging from a $1.50 an hour kitchen helper to a $14,000-a-year marine architect.

Copies of the daily job books also go to neighborhood and suburban Employment Service offices. There are 15 of these, as far as 15 miles from downtown, and Aiken hopes to open 10 more by the end of the year.

The Job Bank opened May 27, 1968. "In the first six months, we placed 36 per cent more hard-core unemployed than at any other time," Aiken said.

"Our chief charge today is dealing with the disadvantaged," Aiken said. But he said much of the work is with senior citizens, and contended the Job Bank is not just for the hard-core jobless.

"Any and all jobs are in the bank—professional engineer, teacher, journeyman trades. The Job Bank is for everyone. It was established to serve the employer."

Job Bank workers are state employees paid by federal funds.

The bank started with $56,000. "Only 10 additional staff members work in the whole operation, and all but one are data processors," Aiken said.

Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, McCormick, Black & Decker and Koppers are among the large employers in this area using the Job Bank. "As far as we're concerned, it's working well," said a Westinghouse spokesman.

Hand Out Photos

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian government has spent $8,828 for handout photographs of Cabinet officials since Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau assumed office just over a year ago. Most of the requests for pictures come from school children seeking illustrations for current affairs projects.

Viet Cong Document Tips Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say a recently captured Viet Cong staff document indicates the enemy plans to try for a political uprising in conjunction with major attacks on Saigon this summer.

Officials said the paper was believed to have figured in a Viet Cong military staff conference in late March.

The document, captured as the Viet Cong's winter-spring assault appears to be petering out, outlines plans for continuing enemy offensive activity, the sources said.

Disclosure of the new paper comes at a time when Pentagon authorities are challenging reports of major enemy pullbacks into Cambodia and disputing arguments of some critics that the enemy winter-spring offensive was in retaliation for intensified allied operations.

The military authorities claim that two North Vietnamese and two Viet Cong divisions, plus various units adding up to a fifth division, remain within striking distance of Saigon.

Citing other captured documents and interrogations of prisoners and defectors, the military sources also say it is clear the enemy was preparing for this year's winter-spring offensive as early as last August.

There are no indications in any of this material that the enemy attempted to de-escalate its military activity last fall after former President Johnson halted all bombing of North Vietnam, these military sources said.

Although military analysts correctly predicted this year's winter-spring offensive, the enemy's operations have fallen short of expectations.

Senior officers here were saying in early March that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong probably would attempt to penetrate at least the outskirts of Saigon and would concentrate on upsetting pacification.

However, except for some limited ground attacks, the enemy's offensive has mostly consisted of shelling U.S. and allied military bases and Vietnamese cities.

Life Spared By Decision Of Physician

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "It's almost like an angel was sitting on my shoulder."

That was the thought of 22-year-old Glenda Burton as she sat in her ninth floor room at Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

She had recovered from the immediate shock of learning her two roommates had been stabbed to death in the apartment they shared in a fashionable district on Kansas City's southside.

"I was supposed to be released from the hospital Tuesday night but my doctor decided to run a few more tests," she said.

That decision may have saved her life.

Glenda's roommates, Barbara Coughlin, 22, and Mary Ann Adler, 20, were found dead Wednesday morning by Miss Adler's fiancée, James Dunham, 23.

The blood splattered walls in the apartment was mute testimony to Miss Coughlin's determined but unsuccessful struggle against her savage assailant.

Glenda said the girls became roommates through happenstance more than anything. She met Barbara in the office building where they both worked. And Mary Ann was acquainted with Barbara at her old apartment building.

"We picked the duplex because it was close to where we worked, furnished and really a nice place," Glenda said.

She said Barbara was gregarious and made friends easily. Mary Ann, she said, was the quieter of the three girls and the best cook and housekeeper.

She said Barbara had a bad habit of leaving the back door of the apartment unlocked. "She wasn't afraid of anything or anyone," Glenda said.

"I wish I could have been there to help," Glenda said with a little remorse in her voice. But then I don't imagine I would have been of any help."

Owl Pays a Visit To a Junior High

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A soot-covered owl was pulled out of the chimney at Fels Junior High School Wednesday after custodians reported noises to the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"I think he fell down the chimney," said Steve Clevenger, an agent for the SPCA. "I put on a pair of gloves and opened the ashpit door in the basement and there he was, sitting there and squinting at me."

Weakened Levees Along Mississippi Cause Concern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Residents of Mississippi River towns in Iowa and Missouri stood guard today as levees continued to hold up under pressure from waters risen 2 to 6 feet over flood stage.

The Army Corps of Engineers said 700 miles of the Mississippi remained in flood stage and warned there was danger—even upstream from the crest—that battered levees could cave in. Precautionary work on levees this year has spared Mississippi River towns a repeat of the disastrous floods of 1965 and 1967. But flooding has cost farmers, homeowners and businessmen millions of dollars in damage this spring, most of it in North Dakota and Minnesota along the rain-swollen Souris and Red rivers. The worst of the Mississippi flooding Wednesday was in a stretch from Burlington, Iowa, to Clarksville, Mo.

There was no threat of flooding on the Illinois side of the Mississippi because of high level and high natural terrain. The Missouri River was in flood stage from western Missouri to St. Louis, except for a short stretch near Jefferson City. It was expected to crest in St. Charles today less than 3 feet above flood level. Later in the week the crest is expected to merge with that of the Mississippi. The engineers said the Mississippi channel below St. Louis could easily accommodate the volume of water both rivers were carrying. The Red River of the North remained above flood stage along its entire course, at some places by as much as 11 feet.

Campus Violence Not New

Student restlessness and violence on university and college campuses is thought by many persons to be a sickness of the sixties.

Maybe so in the manner of extensiveness as recorded lately. However, antics of the dissidents have a historical background that can be traced to the early beginnings of educational institutions in all parts of the world.

While transcribing items from the Sedalia Democrat for the Forty Years Ago column we came across this page one story out of Des Moines, Iowa. The action was similar but tame compared with 1969 violence.

The 1929 item which could very well be mistaken for a dispatch from college towns today, is as follows:

DES MOINES, Iowa — Dr. T.T. Shields, president of the board of trustees of Des Moines University, tonight ordered the institution closed indefinitely and placed it under police protection after a mob of students disrupted the closing session of the board.

One hundred and fifty undergraduates surrounded the administration building and threw eggs and stones as the board members retired to a closet. The students were protesting, it is understood, the ousting by the trustees of the entire faculty, including Dr. Harry Wayman,

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Thanks for Aid Cuts to Education

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon was so pleased with the defeat of the five-year extension of Federal Aid to Education that he put through a special phone call to Rep. William Ayres, Ohio Republican, who had most to do with its defeat.

"Congratulations, Bill," exclaimed the President. "It was nice of you to lose your identity for the cause."

What Nixon meant was that Rep. Ayres had maneuvered to make Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon, a Democrat, the front runner and chief author of the bill, so as to get more Democratic support, even though Ayres did the real masterminding.

"We won by a majority of 51 votes, as you probably know, Mr. President," Ayres told his chief in the White House. "Frankly, I didn't expect a majority of more than 40 votes."

"You also received bipartisan support, commented Nixon. "The bill that passed may not satisfy everyone, but I think it is a good bill that will meet our needs for elementary and secondary schools for the next two years."

"Well, some of the hard-line Democrats don't like it," replied Ayres, "but the vote indicates to me that the country as a whole is not anxious to have the great society programs extended for a long time without a close look by Congress."

The Ayres substitute, offered by Mrs. Green, called for two years of federal aid instead of five as proposed by President Johnson, and also eliminated "community involvement," which Dixie congressmen feared would mean too much Negro participation. The congressional record identifies Mrs. Green as the only sponsor of the bill. However, Ayres distributed 150 copies on the House floor, showing that it was "sponsored by" Mrs. Green, Ayres, and Reps. Phil Landrum, D-Ga., Albert Quie, R-Minn., and Robert Giampo, D-Conn.

Giampo, who usually votes with the Democrats, left the reservation partly because he agreed with Dixiecrat opposition to "community involvement."

Most significant fact about the community involvement amendment was that it was proposed not by Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., sponsor of the original Johnson bill, but by Secretary of HEW Robert Finch on behalf of the Nixon administration. And when the amendment came up for a vote in the House Labor and Education Committee it was adopted by a vote of only 13 to 11, with all hard-core Republicans voting for it. In addition to Quie and Ayres, they included: John Ashbrook, Ohio, Edwin Eshleman, Pa., William Steiger, Wis., Orval Hansen, Idaho, John Erlenborn, Ill., John Dellenback, Ore., and Marvin Esch, Mich.

This is how backstage deals in Congress can make history.

Note 1 — President Nixon has a long record of being less than enthusiastic about Federal Aid to Education. When the first education bill came up in the Senate, sponsored by Sen. Joe Clark, the

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A board of U.S. army officers will meet in Sedalia from May 21 to May 23 for the purpose of purchasing in open market, good sound saddle horses. This may interest our horse dealers ... Referring to the destruction by fire of the Pettis County Court House, the State Journal remarks: "The people of that fast town of Sedalia ought to be thankful for such a fiery visit. Let Pettis county by all means build a court house commensurate with her wealth and population."

FORTY YEARS AGO

"Dude," a fox terrier dog who for the past 15 years has been a faithful mascot around fire station No. 2, is gone. He had been blind for more than a year. He was walking toward the telephone booth when he dropped to the floor. The mascot was buried near the station by one of the firemen.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A meeting was held at the home of Superintendent and Mrs. B. B. Ihrg in Smithton for the purpose of making plans for organizing a Smithton branch of the V. V. Kesterson Historical Society. Judge and Mrs. J. V. Kesterson, Judge and Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Winfrey, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Curry and Mrs. Frank Leach, of Sedalia, met with a few Smithton residents to discuss the plans.

president. A police riot call was turned in and officers were sent to the campus for the second time.

Dr. Shields' action followed a controversy which resulted in dismissal by the trustees of the entire faculty of the school, a Baptist institution. A modernistic-fundamentalist dispute is reported to have been involved.

The students held a demonstration in favor of Dr. Wyman, president of the school, bringing the issue to a climax when 150 of them stormed the administration building where the board was meeting. They threw stones and eggs, breaking windows and wrecking furniture, and were not quelled until a police riot call brought a dozen officers to the campus.

A board member, it was reported, was held captive for awhile by students. No undergraduates had been arrested. Dr. Shields and Miss Edith M. Rebman, secretary of the board, were taken to police headquarters for safety preparatory to leaving Des Moines.

The Baptist Bible Union of North America controls the school.

Subsequently the college was reopened by issuance of an injunction restraining invocation of the board of trustees to close the educational institution. Application for the temporary injunction was made by six students.

Pennsylvania Democrat, Nixon, then Vice President, was called upon to break a tie. He voted no, thereby killing aid to education for half a decade.

Note 2 — Six Republicans disagreed with their President on the five-year Johnson bill and voted for it. They were: James Fulton, Pa., John Saylor, Pa., Ogden Reid, N.Y., Seymour Halpern, N.Y., Frank Horton, N.Y., and Gilbert Gude, Md.

—What Nuclear Advantage?—

The Nixon administration, after a full, secret military review, has concluded that America's supposed 4-to-1 nuclear superiority over Russia is based on erroneous calculations.

The 4-to-1 figure not only is based upon both missiles and bombers but includes as separate, targetable warheads three or more H-bombs in each bomber. The downing of one bomber, in other words, would reduce the American advantage by at least three, and possibly more, warheads, depending upon the size of the bombs.

On the other hand, our 4-to-1 advantage over Russia did not take into account all the Soviet medium bombers, medium-range missiles and missile submarines.

If these are counted it eliminates the American advantage altogether; in fact, the Soviets have larger warheads which would give them an advantage.

—Memories of De Gaulle—

Looking over past columns about the great French leader, here are some things to be remembered: De Gaulle, a tall tank commander, sitting in the lobby of a crowded hotel in Bordeaux in 1940 with the remnants of French leadership, trying to escape to Britain ... The British military attaché recommending to Winston Churchill that around De Gaulle might be rebuilt the French nation ... De Gaulle at a White House luncheon, guest of FDR, given a trick cigar by Rep. Sol Bloom, the New York joker. It exploded in his face. Some diplomats say De Gaulle's antipathy to the United States stemmed from this incident ... Secretary of State Cordell Hull's unkind cut about the "so-called" Free French — another thing that embittered De Gaulle ... How De Gaulle charmed Americans on his official visit to Washington in 1960 ... His effect on LBJ: "I just let him pitch those fast balls and I lean back from the plate without hitting at them," said Johnson ... President Nixon's big gamble in making an unprecedented trip to Europe after only one month in office, chiefly to woo De Gaulle. Now De Gaulle is gone. The gamble failed.

'Hitting the Silk' Old Stuff

Fifty years ago, April 27, 1919, a crowd gathered at McCook Field in Dayton, Ohio, expecting to see a nut named Leslie L. Irvin kill himself.

The 23-year-old barnstorming balloonist and parachutist intended to make the first free-fall parachute jump out of an airplane.

Many people had made jumps before that, but always with a line attached to the aircraft or balloon which automatically opened the chute. Aeromedical experts of the day were unanimous in the opinion that a man falling through the air would lose consciousness before he could pull the ripcord.

Irvin proved the experts wrong, though he did break an ankle. That same year he founded a parachute manufacturing company (now Irvin Industries, Inc.) and two years later organized the Caterpillar Club.

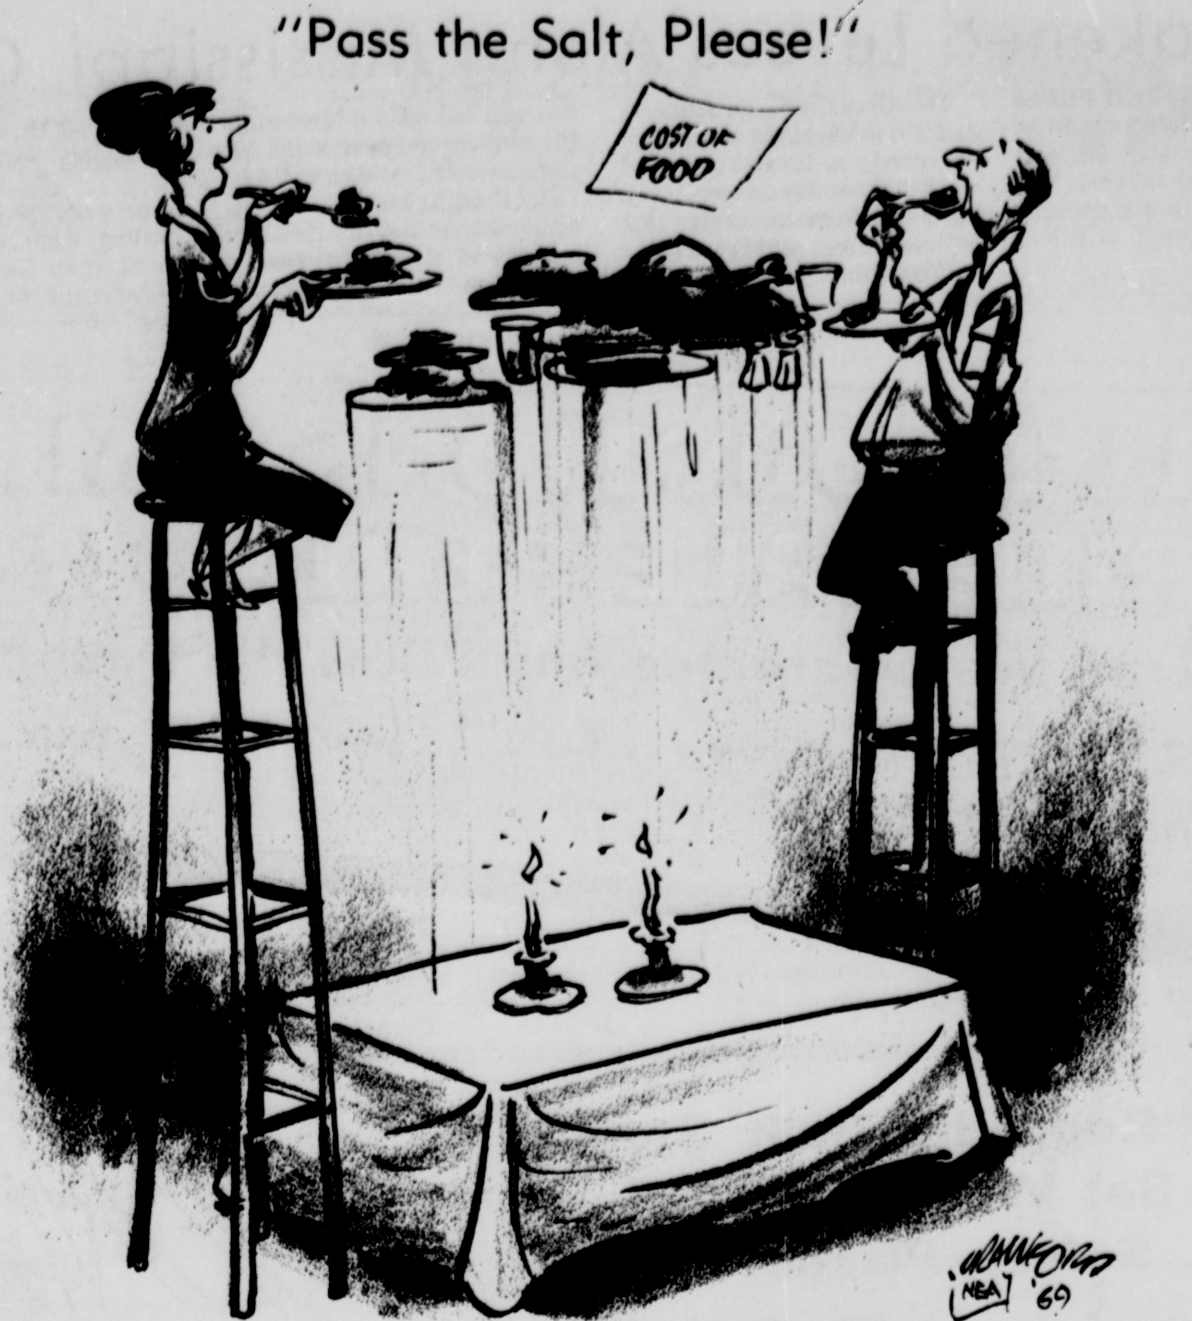

Named after the little worm that made the silk of which early parachutes were made, the Caterpillar Club was opened to anyone whose life was saved by a parachute.

Today, that exclusive club has more than 250,000 members in 62 countries. Its members, none of whom really wanted to join, include such aviation heroes as Charles Lindbergh and Gen. James Doolittle.

Ironically, Irvin, who died in 1966, never qualified for his own club. None of his more than 300 jumps was an emergency.

France Likely to Follow Paths De Gaulle Laid Out

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK — (NEA) — France without De Gaulle will lack his touch of authoritarian rationalism, and perhaps some of its present importance. But the changes in foreign policy may not be as radical as many of France's allies would wish.

The NATO nations will probably find the general's successor's easier to deal with and perhaps more open to compromise, especially on such issues as Britain's membership in the Common Market.

Whether the new president is a veteran Gaullist, like former Premier Georges Pompidou, or a man representing the center-left coalition, he is likely to be less pro-Russian and pursue a more even-handed policy in the Middle East.

But France after De Gaulle is still attached to the idea of an independent nuclear force, a Europe in which French influence tries to exceed that of the United States and a foreign policy that does not hesitate to go its own way.

The question the French now face is whether any man or group of men can effectively carry on De Gaulle's work. Despite these illusions of France's grandeur, the old general, as president, was a shrewd and realistic politician.

He had the courage to grant independence to Algeria and thus avert a bloody civil war. He was instrumental in giving France a new constitution that reduced the power of the chaotic National Assembly and strengthened the authority of the president.

The unusual mandate De Gaulle received in 1958 was in a large measure an expression of France's accumulated disgust at the spectacle of governments coming and going like so many rejected lovers at the whim of a fickle National Assembly.

Before 1958, the National Assembly controlled the executive. There was no separation of power. But what De Gaulle created was a "government and a parliament that worked together but remained separated as to their responsibilities."

To be sure, what the Fifth Republic actually produced was only a partial separation of power since the National Assembly can still overturn a government in certain well-defined circumstances.

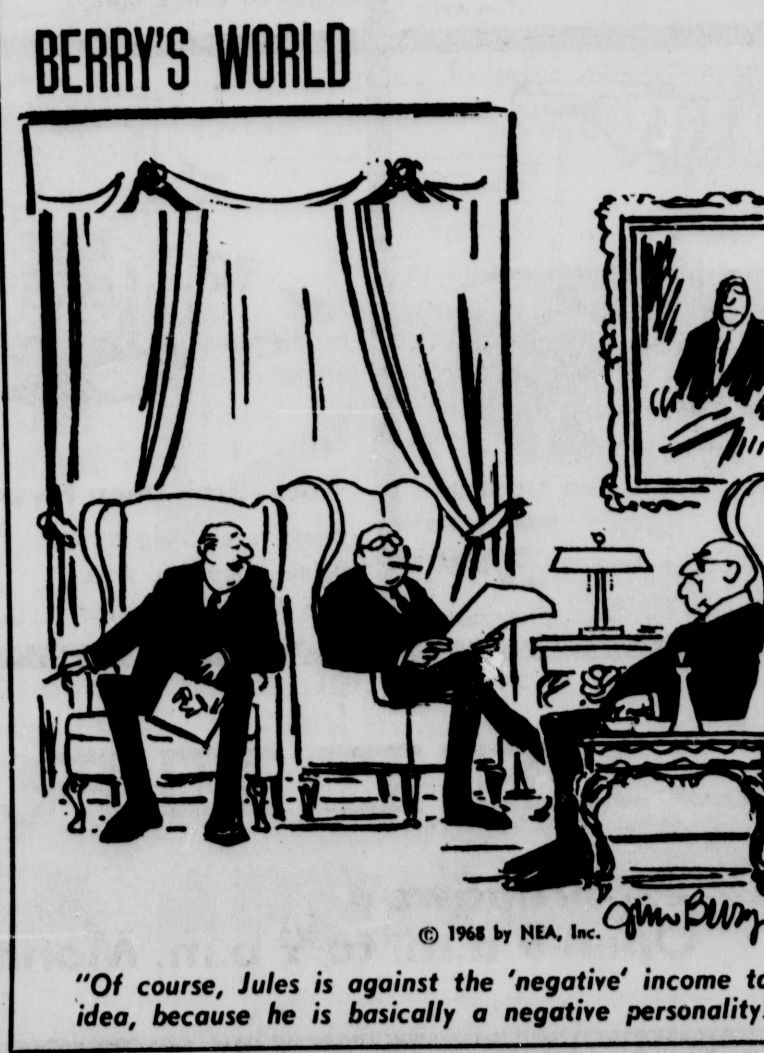

But the system worked well enough under De Gaulle. In fact, it worked too well. He dominated the government so completely that it was impossible to say whether or not the Fifth Republic's lifeline would extend much beyond the general's presidency. Since no president stronger than De Gaulle can be imagined, what happens in the future?

There is no doubt that the general's successor will have to discard a style of government that no one can hope to imitate.

This is not to say that France will revert all the way to the chaos that brought De Gaulle to power in 1958. But it is quite likely that a compromise will be reached between the parliamentary whims of the Fourth Republic and the paternal authoritarianism of De Gaulle. This means a France that is still stable, but democratically oriented.

France, like most countries in western Europe, is plagued by economic difficulties and student riots. It is possible that the student and worker rebellion of last May was the beginning of De Gaulle's end.

But it is hardly likely that the vast majority of French men and women, having once showed a real alternative to the bitter, unprofitable and often degrading era before De Gaulle, will be in a mood for radical changes after De Gaulle.

Betty Canary Dial and Escape

All a mother has to do in order to be elbow-deep in people is pick up the telephone. Everybody knows that little kids who have been engrossed with paper dolls and Tinkertoys drop everything in order to nag for cookies the moment mother reaches for that dial.

Babies awoken from naps and teen-agers who have been unavailable for hours appear immediately and demand the line. If fathers are at home, they also appear, usually to stand mutely holding an empty coffee cup or dangling an undarned sock. Sometimes they choose this time to bang and rummage through kitchen drawers, looking for that old bottle opener that came with their Army mess kit. It only stands to reason that, after 16 years, they need it RIGHT NOW.

Obviously, the reason for all this is that everybody thinks mother has abandoned them for the outside world. She has cut them out and wants a minute alone. Unfortunately, they do not seem to have this left-out feeling when she wants to be alone, scouring the bathroom or heaving those big boxes in the basement.

Naturally, I have lots of telephone experience, what with being on committees and pleading with repairmen, not to mention those times when it has been necessary to call up and say, "My Lord, Grace! I just have to talk with someone over the age of five!"

And, while I cannot say I have made a real study of The Telephone Syndrome as it affects children and mothers, I have done some thinking along the way, so perhaps I have some tips for you.

First of all, forget chaining them all to bedposts. Also, forget about pretending you are really calling the reformatory and arranging to have everybody picked up in 15 minutes. That only works once or twice and what we are trying for here is constructive thinking.

How about turning the telephone into a weapon? I mean, save your vocal cords or throw away the whistle or bell you use to try to get everybody to come for dinner and just sneak the receiver off the hook, thereby attracting everybody into the kitchen in record time.

No, the bad thing about this is, kids catch on fast and soon you'll be spending all your time on the phone, calling friends and asking for them to send Johnny home, and this would cut down on your personal calls.

You can wait until going to the market and make your calls from a public booth. Or, you might consider going to a neighbor's house to make calls while she makes calls from your house.

I'm going to level with you. I have heard mothers promise families everything from a box of raisins to all-out war and nothing works. My conclusion is that the song, "All I Do Is Dream of You," was really composed by a woman who wanted a little privacy on the phone.

Sometimes our friend the Unlucky Expert really is plagued with adversity. Today's hand shows him at his luckiest. There is nothing much wrong with South's six-diamond contract except that somehow or other the particular South who played against our friend was the only player to make it.

The Unlucky Expert made the normal lead of the jack of clubs. South won with the king and after going through a process of cerebration, decided that it wasn't a good day for finesse. Therefore he cashed his ace of diamonds and led a second diamond toward dummy. The Unlucky Expert went up with his king and led a third trump.

South was in his own hand. He cashed his other high club and the ace and king of spades, and ruffed a third spade in dummy. He cashed dummy's ace of hearts and queen of clubs to discard his next to last spade. Then he ruffed dummy's last club to get back to his hand.

Everyone was now down to two cards. West held two hearts, East one heart and the queen of spades, dummy the king and jack of hearts and South the 10 of spades and nine of hearts.

South knew all of this except he didn't know which opponent held the heart-queen. He had noted the drop of the heart 10 from East but East was smart enough to have chucked the 10 and hung on to a low one, so South could not be sure. What he could be sure of was that an unsuccessful heart finesse at this point would put him down two. Anyway, South wasn't a finesser by nature so he went up with dummy's king of hearts and the Unlucky Expert had his usual unlucky result.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Chronic Mucous Colitis Not a Cause of Cancer

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — Are people who have spastic colitis prone to have a high cholesterol level? Will chronic colitis cause cancer?

A — There is no connection between colitis and the blood cholesterol level. Chronic mucous colitis will not cause cancer but chronic ulcerative colitis often does.

Q — I am on a bland diet because of colitis. How long will I have to stay on this diet? Does colitis ever clear up? Would a highball mixed with water affect my colitis?

A — Although persons with colitis must curb their intake of roughage, the amount they can tolerate varies with the severity of the disease. Some can take no roughage, while others can take the equivalent of one or two well-cooked prunes a day.

Raw vegetables and fruit are at least twice as irritating, ounce for ounce, as cooked. With careful management colitis can be controlled and the diet liberalized, but this takes time and most victims have to use caution in selecting their diet for the rest of their lives. Distilled spirits in moderation usually have no harmful effect on the bowel. The same cannot be said for fermented beverages.

Q — My doctor wants me to take a bland diet for colitis but he did not say what foods to eat or avoid. Is whole wheat bread considered roughage?

A — Truly bland diet contains no fruit, vegetable or bran. Whole wheat bread contains bran.

Q — Why do doctors sometimes take out one's appendix when they remove the gall bladder?

A — It is common practice for a surgeon to remove the appendix even though it is normal when he has to open the abdomen. This procedure is safe and relatively easy and avoids having to remove it later if appendicitis should develop.

Q — What are Aventyl pills given for? Can one take them for a long period?

A — Nortriptyline (Aventyl) is an antidepressant. Anyone who takes this drug for a long time should have a periodic checkup.

NIAGARA FALLS GAZETTE: Double View. — If you have friends or acquaintances who are planning to come to Niagara Falls for a visit this summer, drop them a note and tell them they are in for a special treat. They will see the famous cataracts in a way that never has been possible before.

They'll see the great Horseshoe Falls rushing over the precipice in all its majesty — its rainbow shining through the mist and its constant roar sounding in full cadence. Just like it's always been.

Also, they'll see the American Falls silent and bone dry — its water diverted over the Horseshoe by a coffer dam and its rapids and crest exposed to full view for the first time ever. The diversion — to last several months — will enable army engineers to study ways of halting erosion and removing unsightly rock piles.

You might say that it will be two great sights for the price of one ...

The reason you ought to tell your friends about this is to correct a report, gaining some circulation, that the de-watering of the American cataract will somehow detract from the view which tourists will get. Here on the scene, we know that just the opposite will be true.

WARRENSBURG — Central Missouri State College opened its own museum today, culminating years of effort by faculty and alumni.

The museum is directed by Dr. Pete Nichols, assistant professor of social science. Located in Clark Hall, formerly the old Church of the Brethren, on Clark Street directly south of the College Union, the museum features general history, anthropology and natural history.

The need for a museum in the West Central Missouri area has been recognized for years since the nearest museums are at Kansas City and Springfield.

When Life Gets Dull, Fall Back on Daydreams

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There are times in life when it seems to hold no more surprises than last year's Christmas presents, packed away in the closet.

The routines of everyday chafe and bind. Nothing is strange or new or exciting. Boredom overwhelms; the world is a half-stifled yawn.

"Is this all there is to living?" one asks one's self inside.

Of course it isn't. Man was not born to die of boredom but to wear himself out in action.

At such times when life appears to be a blind and repetitious rut leading nowhere, it is a good idea to pause and scribble down some adventures and misadventures that haven't befallen you but theoretically could — thus indicating that your fate isn't altogether sealed.

For example, here is such a list by one fellow, who finds that after more than half a century of existence, he has yet to —

Get stranded alone on a stuck ferris wheel with a beautiful girl.

Box a compass.

Buy a pig in a poke.

Dance around a Maypole.

Blow "Taps" on a bugle.

Palm an ace in a poker game.

Swim an alligator-infested river.

er.

Count the number of sardines in a can or the kernels on an ear of corn.

Save a jailed prisoner by starting down a lynch mob.

Fight a forest fire.

Win on a 100-to-1 shot at the track.

Grow a walrus mustache.

Wear a toga, a tunic or a shako.

Slap an insulting cad in the face with a pair of white gloves.

Defend a lady's honor at sword's point.

Hide underwater from pursuers while breathing through the tube of a river reed.

Save a lovely lass from drowning and then restore her by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Says Unlikely That Negroes Will Revolt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rep. Julian Bond of the Georgia State Legislature said Tuesday night the possibility of violent revolution by Negroes was unlikely but "must not be dismissed."

The 29-year-old legislator urged formation of a political movement powerful enough to operate without the revolution or one that would "take advantage of the moment it arrives."

Bond, whose name was placed in nomination for vice president at the Democratic convention, spoke to an overflow crowd at Park College that gave him two standing ovations.

He criticized President Nixon for starting his administration "in a way that ought to give us pause."

"Fifteen years after segregation in public schools is declared illegal," Bond said, "this man's government gives grace periods to five school districts."

"Although unemployment and underemployment are among our greatest problems, this man's government gives $14 million in federal contracts to three Southern textile firms with a proven record of discrimination on the promise they will do better."

Bond said politics in 1969 for oppressed persons would "cease being the art of compromise and will begin being the art of seeing who gets how much of what from whom."

Tigers Beat Eagles, 9-3; To Battle the Kewpies

The Smith-Cotton Tigers advanced to the finals of the Sedalia sub-district baseball tournament, Wednesday by downing the Ashland Eagles, 9-3.

Ashland was held to three hits on the brilliant pitching of Terry Hudson. Their first hit didn't come until the bottom of the last inning, the same inning their three runs were scored.

The Tigers had only collected one hit themselves until the fourth-inning, when Steve Young opened the frame with a single. Steve Gerlecz followed by forcing Young at second on an infield grounder.

Gerlecz stole second just prior to Dave Nash's free pass on a base on balls.

Gerlecz then stole third and scored the first run of the game on Ashland's pitcher, Phil Green's wild pitch; Nash ended up on third base.

Terry Hudson walked and then stole second. J. T. Rissler made the second out in the inning when he popped to the catcher.

Kirby was hit on the elbow for a one base free ticket, filling the sacks.

Steve Holmes lashed a double to center field, unloading the bases but was thrown out at third trying to stretch his double into a triple.

The end of the fourth-inning found the Tigers on top, 4-0.

Ashland mounted a scoring threat in the bottom half of the fifth, but failed to materialize.

In the top of the sixth, Gerlecz walked, Nash drove him home with a triple. Nash's effort in trying to stretch a triple into an inside-the-park home run failed as Ashland's catcher held on to the ball and made the tag.

Terry Hudson helped his own cause with a single; he went on to second when Glenn Holmes was hit by a pitch. Hudson scored on a single by Kirby, sending Holmes to third.

The action really started when Steve Holmes' squeeze bunt scored both Glenn Holmes

Royals Win, Cards Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fireballing Bob Gibson pitched his second victory of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night, but it was a single and a stolen base that gave the big right-hander his biggest kick.

"That's the most fun in the game any more," said Gibson after he threw a four-hitter to beat Pittsburgh, 8-1, and give the Cards a split in a double-header. The Pirates won the opener, 2-1, behind Jim Bunning's five-hitter.

The Kansas City Royals snapped a four-game losing streak, edging the Chicago White Sox, 3-2, when a knuckleball thrown by losing pitcher Wilbur Wood evaded catcher Duane Josephson in the bottom of the ninth to let in the winning run.

"It's work to pitch," Gibson continued. "But some people way up there who probably never played baseball want to change it so pinch hitters can bat for pitchers. They better never do that to me, or there'll be trouble."

Gibson was joking, but there are pitchers who agree with him. He singled and stole second base, driving in a run and scoring a run in his own behalf.

The Cardinals banged out 12 hits, with Joe Torre and Lou Brock leading the way with three apiece. Torre drove in three runs with his second home run in the fourth inning, a single in the seventh and a double in the ninth. Brock drove in two with a fifth-inning single.

"I can't remember the last time I had a lead," Gibson said. "I thanked all the guys personally. I threw better over-all to-

St. Paul's Juco Loses Games, But Wins One

CONCORDIA — St. Paul's Junior College baseball team traveled to Nebraska earlier this week for three games.

The Blue Jays split a double header with York, losing the first contest 4-1, but posting a 3-0 victory in the second.

Terry Herzberg took the loss in the first game. Paul Sieveking was tagged with the victory in the second.

The Jays moved on to Seward, Neb. for a single game, but they couldn't muster enough strength for a victory, losing 12-2.

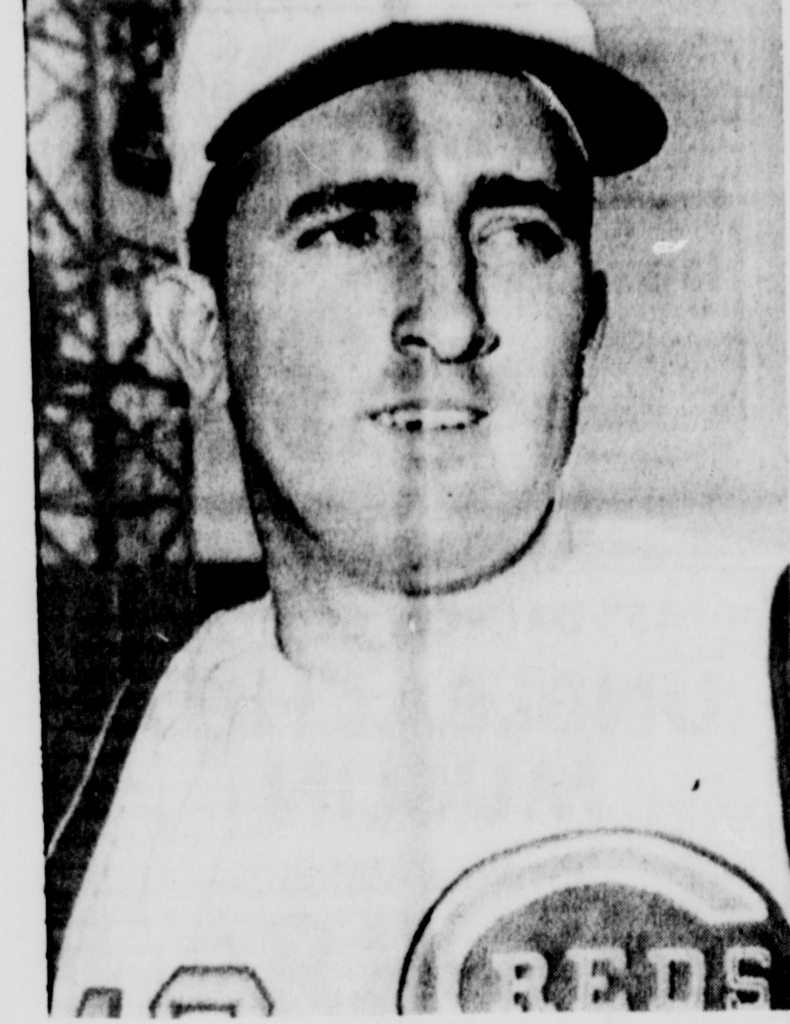

Mike Albers took the loss for St. Paul's.

The Lutherans now have a season mark of two wins and seven losses.

The next diamond action for St. Paul's is Saturday, when they go on the road for a single contest with Missouri Western Junior College at St. Joseph.

Moe Drabowsky got the victory in relief of rookie Bill Butler, who yielded two first inning runs to the White Sox and then blanked them on three hits for seven innings. Chuck Harrison and Pat Kelly drove in the Royals' first two runs with singles in the first and second innings.

The Royals will start rookie Jim Hooker tonight against Chicago's Joe Horlen while the Cardinals' Nelson Briles will open against the Pirates and Bob Veale

No-Hit Maloney

Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Redlegs pitched the third no-hitter of his career and the second no-hitter of the young season as the Reds dumped the Astros, Wednesday night, 10-0, in Cincinnati. (UPI)

S-C Thinclads Lose

The Smith-Cotton A&B varsity thinclads dropped a close meet to the Marshall Ows here, Tuesday evening. Both teams lost by a margin of 3 points. This brings to 4 the number of track meets the Tigers have lost by less than 6 points.

Coach Fred Long however expressed much satisfaction with the running as three stadium records were smashed and one school record tied. In the quarter mile Steve Cain ran a 51.8 to better the old stadium record of 53.5 by 1.7 seconds. The effort was also good enough to tie the existing school record.

The mile relay team composed of Keith Cooper, Frank Doogs, Steve Cain, and Steve Hunt shattered the old stadium record of 3:33.7 by 1.2 seconds with the time of 3:32.5. These same boys set the record which they broke yesterday last year. Individual times were: Cooper-52.8, Doogs-54.4, Cain-52.2, Hunt-53.4. The two mile relay team of Frank Doogs, Bob Logan, Paul Klover and Steve Cain, also took a stadium record. The 8:34.9 effort was good enough to better the old record of 8:41.3 by 6.4 seconds. Individual times were: Doogs-2:09.4, Logan-2:08.7, Klover-2:03.8, Cain-2:12.8.

District Thinclad's Meet Will Be At Warrensburg

WARRENSBURG, Mo. — Dick Maxwell, Central Missouri State College Head Track Coach, announced CMSC is hosting a district track meet for the Class M and S high schools of West Central Missouri Saturday in Vernon Kennedy Stadium. The meet, one of eight held around the state, is slated for preliminary action at 9 a.m.

Maxwell noted there are 31 class M schools and 21 class S schools designated to the district, but all the schools do not usually enter.

Athletes qualifying in the Class M and S district meets around the state compete in the state finals scheduled for the University of Missouri in Columbia May 10. "No fewer than two men per event and no more than four men per event will qualify for the state meet depending on the number of entries received," Maxwell added.

be initiated for the first time in district competition this year.

Maxwell noted team points will be awarded on a 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 basis with trophies awarded to the first and second place teams. Medals will be awarded to individuals placing first, second and third in the competition.

Tigers' Star Signs Letter To SFCC

Bob Goodnight

Bob Goodnight, standout basketball player for Coach Bill Hogue's Smithton Tigers, has signed a letter of intent to attend State Fair Community College the coming fall semester.

Goodnight is six feet tall, weighs 180 pounds and averaged 16 points and 11 rebounds during the '68-69 roundball crusade.

He received basketball letters his sophomore, junior and senior years at Smithton. Goodnight was also named on the Kaysinger All-Conference team two years in succession and was placed on the second team all-district his senior year.

The outside shooting ability of Goodnight could prove to be a valuable asset to the Roadrunners squad, which was one of State Fair's weakest points during their first jucu campaign in 1968-69.

This is addition number six that head Coach Fred Wehking has made thus far in his recruiting ventures for next season. Others include: George Helming, Hermann; Jim Sterns, Adrian; Randy Williams, Iberia; Darrell Gordon, McDonald County High School and Gene Wimsatt, Ozark.

Goodnight is the son of Mrs. Helen Miller.

Blues Seek Revenge

ST. LOUIS (AP) — As they face each other on the opposing benches in tonight's third game of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals, coaches Scotty Bowman of the St. Louis Blues and Claude Ruel of the Montreal Canadiens may think of what might have been.

They could have wound up as teammates playing in this series instead of enemy coaches trying to outthink each other.

Both were promising players in the Montreal organization when tragic injuries ended their playing careers almost before they had a chance to get started.

"Bowman was a junior A player in 1952 when a collision on the ice resulted in a serious head injury. He carries a plate in his head as a result of the accident and he has a more tangible, constant reminder of it every time he glances down the St. Louis bench.

The player he collided with was Jean Guy Talbot, now a Blues' defenseman and one of Bowman's alternate captains on the club.

Ruel came along a few years later and was considered a good defenseman when tragedy struck him. He was playing in Belleville, Ont., in 1957 when an errant stick hit him and cost him the sight of his left eye.

A 'Little Things' Shower Is Appreciated by Bride

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I wonder if any of the readers are familiar with a homemade furniture polish containing mineral oil and a second ingredient I cannot remember. This polish is very popular in Denmark for use on teak furniture and works beautifully. I would like to know how to mix some.—MRS. S. G.

DEAR POLLY—It is the little things needed in a new household that throw a bride's budget. I think it is well to include some of them as gifts for a bridal shower. When going to a kitchen shower, remember a tack hammer, small screw driver, spatula, spices and various sizes of plastic bags. Most welcome at a bathroom shower would be first-aid supplies, a nylon tub scrubber and a bath brush. Among general things there could be ash trays, light bulbs, a package of assorted safety pins, scissors and spools of black and white thread. To carry such an idea a bit further one could wrap the shower gift in a new dish towel or bath towel, the "ribbon" could be a tape measure and the bow a pan scratcher, a cluster of steel wool pads or a pouf of nylon net to be used later as a lint brush.—MARIAN

DEAR POLLY—I put a small hole in the long part of a plastic toothbrush holder and have it hanging at the side of my kitchen wall telephone so a pencil is always handy when needed.—MRS. C. M. M.

DEAR POLLY—Keep your shower cap pinned to the inside of the shower curtain with a small plastic clothespin. It will drip dry in the tub and always be at hand for the next use.—R. P.

DEAR POLLY—L. J. R. wanted to know how to remove the curl from the edges of a knitted scarf. If steam pressing does not do the trick she should single crochet all around the edges. Do this in the same color or with a contrasting color for added appeal. It might help if she did not pull her edge stitches quite so tight as she knits.—MRS. C. K. C.
